MARKET REPORT

weekly average slaughter lamb prices

NOTE: INSUFFICIENT SALES FOR CERTAIN WEEKS.

Alberta lamb markets remained steady through the month of September. Lamboo's bid range for the entire month was $63-$66 per cwt, live, or $1.40 per lb railgrade. There is still a two to three week slaughter backlog at the Innisfail packing plant, so be sure to confirm your marketing intentions well ahead of time. A recent upswing in buyer interest in the eastern wholesale market, possibly prompted by cooler weather, has permitted larger kills the past two weeks at Lamboo. This is welcome news, as slaughter volumes at the beginning of the month were quite low. For the month of September as a whole, slaughter volumes at Lamboo were two percent above 1987 volumes. Lamboo bids are likely to hold steady at current levels through the bulk of the fall run.

About 850 head of sheep and lambs were sold in the September 29 sheep and lamb sale at Edmonton Public Stockyards. Market lambs traded for $58-$63 per cwt, while feeder lambs went for $70-$80 per cwt. Ewes were sold for $40-$45 per head. The going price for market lambs for export to the U.S. from Southern Alberta is still $65 per cwt.

In outside markets, Toronto prices for sheep and lambs declined substantially during the month of September. Most U.S. markets were steady to slightly stronger.

Prices quoted for 95-110 lb lambs are bid prices at Lambco and auction prices at Toronto Public Stockyards for good quality lambs. The lower end of the Alberta price range reflects bids for short haul or unshrunk lambs while the upper end of the range represents bids for long haul or shrunk lambs. Producers delivering to the Toronto Public Stockyards pay commission and yardage fees for each animal sold. Producers delivering to Lambco pay $1/head checkoff to the Alberta Sheep and Wool Commission.

The Toronto auction price is from the Special Sheep and Lamb Sale held on Monday each week.

PINKEYE IN SHEEP

Pinkeye or, to use the scientific term, ovine infectious keratoconjunctivitis, is a distressing eye disease which affects sheep, and to a lesser extent goats, throughout the world. The disease is frustrating to owners because of the time and effort required to catch and treat sheep. Sometimes treatment is not effective. No vaccine is currently available.

Researchers blame two organisms for causing pinkeye but there is doubt as to which is the most important. They are, Mycoplasma conjunctivae and Branhamella ovis. The latter organism can often be found in healthy eyes and it seems that different strains exist with the more aggressive ones responsible for some outbreaks.

In mild or early pinkeye the eye is almost closed and it is wet with tears. One or both eyes may be affected. Later, discharges appear and the eye becomes red as a result of congested blood vessels around the cornea. In more severe cases the cornea becomes scarred and permanent blindness may develop. It should be emphasized that the great majority of eyes heal, without treatment, after three weeks and, where sheep are raised extensively, for example in Australia, treatment in commercial flocks is usually not attempted. However, owners of smaller flocks don't like to see their animals suffer, lose condition or risk blindness in purebred stock and so some form of control is usually attempted.

Pinkeye tends to be a problem when sheep are confined, or when they crowd for shade, shelter or water. In southern Alberta, outbreaks are frequent in the fall and early winter when sheep graze stubble during prolonged windy and dusty weather. It seems that eyes irritated by dust and possibly by bright sunlight are more susceptible to the effects of disease-causing organisms. Infection is thought to spread by infected eye discharges and by flies. When practical, susceptible sheep should be moved to less stressful environments. Vitamin A helps to protect eyes from infections and so, if pinkeye becomes a problem in winter when reserves of the vitamin could be low, levels should be boosted.

Treatments vary both between countries and veterinarians. Eye ointments containing antibiotics are preferable to eye powders which might be irritating. Intramuscular injection of long-acting antibiotics given at the same time as the eye ointment are of additional help. Alberta veterinarians are familiar with the treatment of pinkeye in cattle and sheep. Producers who are concerned about pinkeye should approach their veterinarians to discuss treatments, details of application, and other means of controlling this troublesome disease.

2nd WORLD SHEEP AND WOOL CONGRESS

New Zealand, Tasmania and mainland Australia Leaving Canada - Wednesday, February 15, 1989

SEND YOUR REGISTRATION DEPOSIT IN EARLY AND AVOID AN ADDITIONAL BUS RIDE!!
(Wellington-Palmerston North)

Our travel agent, Peach World Travel, has informed the Alberta Sheep Breeders' Association (ASBA) office that Air New Zealand has rescheduled its domestic routes. Therefore, there will only be 45 seats available to the tour for a direct flight from Auckland to Palmerston North on the late afternoon flight on Saturday, February 18, 1989. These seats will be allotted on a first-come, first-served basis. Negotiations are being made for an extra plane - if numbers warrant - another good reason to send your deposit in early so that these numbers can be confirmed with Air New Zealand.

Those registered after the "magic" 45 number can expect to fly from Auckland to Wellington and routed back to Palmerston North by ground transportation.

All other scheduling remains as printed as of September 21, 1987.

Canadian sheep breeders are endeavouring to put together a promotional "Pancake Breakfast" in Launceston, Tasmania, Saturday, March 4, 1989. Anyone with good ideas or who are willing to volunteer their services for "K.P." duty and to donate an hour or two in the Canada booth in the International Trade Fair display, March 4-6th, please contact the ASBA office at the above address.

COMBINED ABORTION VACCINE NOW AVAILABLE

Dr. Raymond A. Fenton
Animal Health Division
Alberta Agriculture, Airdrie

September 27, 1988

Sheep producers, take note! A vaccine will soon be available for immunizing your breeding animals against the two most common infectious causes of abortion in Alberta's sheep flocks. The effects of Enzootic Abortion (EAE) and Ovine Campylobacteriosis (OC) can be minimized by the proper use of this combined vaccine.

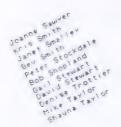

The vaccine is called "ABORTAVAC" and will be distributed to Canadian veterinarians by Vetrepharm Inc., an ethical company based in London, Ontario. This product is presently in use in the states of Washington, Oregon and Iowa. The vaccine should be available to producers by the first week in October. Contact your veterinary practitioner now, and place your order for as many doses as you will need this fall.

The manufacturer recommends an initial series of two injections, 3 to 8 weeks apart, the last one given 2 weeks prior to breeding. Obviously, this regimen will not work this breeding season for many producers. However, do not let the lateness in the year deter you. Vaccinating after breeding is still very useful and will protect those non-infected animals in your flock. This is a killed vaccine and safe to use on breeding or pregnant animals. Next year, give these vaccinated animals a booster 2 to 4 weeks before turning out your rams.

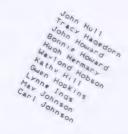

Replacement ewe lambs and ewes purchased from negative flocks are most susceptible. These animals should definitely be targeted for a two dose vaccination series this fall. However, all breeding animals should be vaccinated, including your rams. EAE and OC are diagnosed in Alberta's diagnostic laboratories every year, in feti submitted from abortion outbreaks. Make sure your flock is protected from these abortion-causing diseases. Consult your veterinarian and follow his advice and recommendations for better flock health.

Ken Alberg Betty Alberg Ululan Avers-Berry Russ Avers-Berry Jo Antel Another sucessful "Lambs in Lacombe" has come and gone. Again we had a wonderful team of volunteers to lend a hand.

We would especially like to thank the Beef Cattle and Sheep Branches of Alberta Agriculture, the Sheep and Wool Commission, the Alberta Sheep Breeders and Custom Woolen Mills for their support.

Thanks also to Cathy Gallivan and Wray Whittmore for organizing and running the commercial ewe lamb sale.

We wish we could personally thank all of ewe...you, but there are just too many of you to make that possible. We hope you had as much fun as we did.

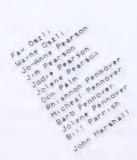

Over a thousand people came out to the fair despite the terrible weather. The fact that they all seemed to have a good time is due to the volunteers...

Thanks again!

recent winners at the Lambs in Lacombe Master Shepherds competition. To all those who participated, thanks for entering. For those that didn't win, better luck next year.

A special thanks to Bill Jackson and Bruce McGhan and all others who helped organize and run the competition.

Barry Wilson Olds College The Mountainview Sheep Producers, a recently formed production group, is now holding monthly meetings. These meetings are being held on the first Monday of every month. Currently meetings are being held at the Olds College sheep area at 7:30 P.M.

Subjects or areas to be covered by the group in the future, include: herd health, record keeping, tripartite/stabilization, Alberta sources of help and information in the sheep industry, management needed to maintain a high lambing percentage, Lambco and alternate markets, improving reproductive efficiency and dogs and their place on a sheep farm.

All interested sheep producers are welcome to attend. For further information contact Jim Pearson at 224-3026 or Barry Wilson at 556-8202.
